ABOUT

“How QS will succeed in Tomorrow's World” is the theme of HKIS and AIQS Joint Conference. Continuously learning new knowledge and absorbing others' experience are essential elements of success. Given that HKIS is the regional leader in the Surveying Industry with local professionals capable of providing services to international standards, sharing and acquiring both local and international experience and wisdom are valuable for Hong Kong to further her success. Planning for the future, HKIS has invited AIQS, a national professional organization, to jointly organize the conference this year to highlight the latest local and international developments and trends in quantity surveying and cost engineering, so as to simulate and explore new and future opportunities for the professional development of quantity surveying. Overseas and local experienced practitioners have been invited as speakers to share their precious knowledge, experience and insight with the attendees to strengthen their competency and facilitate industry development.
